1. Introduction

To ensure the proper functioning of our website, we sometimes place small data files on your computer called "cookies". Most major websites do the same.

2. What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that a website stores on your computer or mobile device when you visit the site. It enables the website to remember your actions and preferences (such as login, language, font size and other display preferences) for a period of time so that you do not have to enter these preferences every time you visit the site or browse its pages.

3. How do we use cookies?

Example:

Some of our pages use cookies to remember:

1. your display preferences, e.g., brightness or font size
2. if you have already responded to a pop-up survey asking if the content was useful or not (so that the same question is not posed to you again)
3. if you have agreed (or not) to our use of cookies on this site.
4. Also, some videos embedded in our pages use a cookie to anonymously gather statistics about how you got there and which videos you viewed.

Enabling these cookies is not necessary for the site to work, but they will allow you to have a better browsing experience. You can delete these cookies, or block them, but if you do, some features of the website may not work satisfactorily.

The information associated with cookies is not used to personally identify you. The cookies are not used for purposes other than those described herein.

4. How to control cookies

You can control and/or delete cookies as you wish. For details, please see:

http://ec.europa.eu/ipg/basics/legal/cookies/index_en.htm#section_2
<https://www.aboutcookies.org/>

You can delete all cookies that are already on your computer, and you can set most browsers to prevent cookies from being placed. However, in that case, you may have to manually adjust some preferences each time you visit a website, and also some services may not work.

5. You can easily accept or reject cookies from this site by adjusting the cookie settings in your browser.

Internet Explorer : <https://support.microsoft.com/el-gr/help/17442/windows-internet-explorer-delete-manage-cookies>

6. Google Analytics

The website of PALEOLOGOS S.A. uses Google Analytics service to compile website statistics for such purposes as marketing and advertising.

Google Analytics uses Cookies and provides detailed digital data, processed by Google in its computer systems, in order to ensure the provision of the above services.

These cookies are used to store non-personally identifiable data by the method of "IP address anonymization" (<https://support.google.com/analytics/answer/2763052>). This ensures that Google does not store complete address information, and as a consequence, user profiles created are anonymous and prevent personal identification.

All relevant information on Google Analytics service can be found at the following link:
https://www.google.com/intl/el_ALL/analytics/index.html.

When you visit our website, you provide your consent for Google Analytics to process your data and for the relevant cookies to be placed on your device. If you do not wish to give your consent you can disable cookies in your browser.

7. Language cookie

Stores the preferred language of the visitor to the website of PALEOLOGOS S.A. The cookie is valid for 30 days. When the cookie expires, it is deleted again automatically. Language storage is necessary particularly for the websites of PALEOLOGOS S.A., which offer content in more than one language, so that the preferred language can be automatically selected when the site is revisited.

The cookie does not re-identify the visitor and is not used to evaluate the user behavior.

8. Time cookie

It includes the current date. This information is necessary for website services that are associated with dates. The cookie is valid for one day. When the cookie expires, it is deleted again automatically.

The cookie does not re-identify the visitor and is not used to evaluate the user behavior.

9. System cookie (PHPSESSID)

The cookie is stored on your computer in the context of an online reservation.

The cookie helps to clearly identify the user and serves to protect your personal data from unlawful access by third parties. The cookie does not store personal data, nor does the cookie correspond to a specific user profile.

The cookie is deleted automatically when you close your internet browser or when your browser session expires.

10. Personal data protection policy
